Who Needs an Estate Plan:

Everyone, regardless of assets or net worth, should consider an estate plan. Arete Legal Solutions emphasizes the importance of having at least a basic plan to pass property outside probate, address family dynamics, and express your wishes clearly.

What is Probate:

Probate is the legal process appointing someone to administer a decedent's estate. Arete Legal Solutions highlights the potential costs, time, and complications associated with probate, emphasizing the value of avoiding it through proper estate planning.

Considerations When Creating My Estate Plan:

Powers of Attorney: Authorize someone to act on your behalf for financial, healthcare, and other purposes.

Wills: Express your desires for property transition, understanding that a will alone won't avoid probate entirely.

Trusts: Explore various trust types for a detailed, efficient, and probate-avoiding estate plan.

Other Documents: Include beneficiary deeds, transfer on death/payable on death elections, and ensure proper beneficiary elections for financial accounts.

Considerations Where a Trust may be Appropriate:

Discuss with Arete Legal Solutions if a Trust is suitable based on factors like family composition, minor children, asset types, real property holdings, dependents, charitable contributions, and tax minimization goals.
