One of the leading sports advertising agencies in Hollywood, California, Battery is part of the Havas Annex Network and works with a global clientele. As a leading advertising agency in Los Angeles, we specialize in game marketing <http://theworldofmarketing.net/tips-for-choosing-video-game-agencies/> and esports marketing, and also do alcohol marketing and marijuana marketing. We believe in taking a collaborative approach to our work and in partnering with our clients in the creative process to come up with unique concepts for our advertising and marketing campaigns to ensure they are entertaining and sought-after. We understand that, in a fast-changing world, it is more important than ever to make advertising that makes a significant difference in popular culture. It is only with such advertising work that you can capture public attention and imagination and ensure that your brand won't get overlooked and forgotten. We won Ad Age's Campaign of the Year honor in 2015, 2016, and 2018, and our 'Netflix is a Joke' campaign for Netflix won the Cannes Lion award. Additionally, our You're Gonna Need a Bigger Imagination campaign for Lego was declared the Kids Campaign of the Year by Promax Games. Along with Netflix and Lego, we have created promotional campaigns for a range of prominent clients such as Royal Bank of Canada, PUBG, Disney, Aecom, Blizzard Entertainment, Activision, and others. Also, the Los Angeles Business Journal and the Wall Street Journal have mentioned our work.
