Bioanalysis

In recent years, bio-tech-based drugs have become a popular development orientation and companies have placed increasingly more focus on bioanalysis for its important role in the early R&D of such drugs. Medicilon's Bioanalysis Department boasts professional scientific research team with analysis laboratories equipped by advanced instruments. In the context of information management, our experiments and researches are compliant with standards of FDA/NMPA GLP and involve pharmacokinetics, toxicokinetics, pharmacodynamics, immunogenicity and bioequivalence, so as to provide our clients with services including selection and development, preclinical and clinical researches of micromolecule drugs, biological preparations, vaccines and biomarkers.
