Whether you're moving out from your rental or from your own house, it's crucial to leave the home in overall good condition to save yourself from unwanted penalties. If the house is rented then breaking of floors and scratches can leave a huge damage to your pockets financially. Whether it's a moving company coming to help you or either you yourself are shifting; it's important to always ensure that your floors and even walls are safe from damages and breakages.

Packers and Movers Bangalore suggest you to defend your floors while handling or loading heavy items when moving. So without delaying anymore let us just unboxed the tips to defend your floors from damages while moving house to new destination.

Why floors protections are fundamental?

One of the major challenges people face while moving a house is handling heavy furniture pieces and kitchen appliances, however with wrong position of handling and loading one can easily damage himself and this damage can lead to bone crack, muscle pain, strain, sprain or even injured backbone. If the output of body can be such then imagine the condition of floors and walls which can easily get hurt when you're lifting heavy goods and pieces in order to load and move. With no matter if it's yours but still instead of consuming time to make it repair for future or for other owner it's better to invest few minutes in order to prepare the scenario which eventually defends every damage and breakage done towards floors and walls especially. This safety action is initiated by the #safe and #best #household #shifting services in #Bangalore

For an example: while moving awkwardly shaped items, floors and walls can get suffer the most damage during this period. Unwanted scratches, scrapes and dents can damage the floors easily within a quick time. Practically if heavy items are tend to move from a polished hardwood floor, then the chances of breaking leads to higher because of its delicate top layer. Other than this; tiled floors can also get damage easily if something heavy drops on it. So precaution becomes essential and crucial when lifting, handling or moving heavy weight items.

How to insulate hardwood floors when moving?

A quick and simple guide by household shifting services in Bangalore.

Looking to your plotting and comparing with us it's obvious to find a difference of professionalism, being a moving company in the industry at top from last 18-19 years means a lot to define professionalism and experience, however if you're thinking to move alone by reading packing and moving guide then at some stage it may work but still there're chances to meet failures. So without lacking a minute Packers and Movers in Bangalore would like to stake a defense strategy of two lines which usually means protecting your floors and walls upto two ways. If one gets failed no worries the second is still there to save.

First line of defense

The first line defense speaks to protect the floors with moving equipments. Yes apart from a moving truck there are lots many new designed types of equipment through which you can easily handle heavy items and make them travel through your home to moving vehicle. However it demands you to get a prior knowledge of how to work with it.

1. Furniture dolly - these dollies comes with large rubber wheels which ensures to have a safe journey of moving without leaving any damage to floors. But the only thing to remind is make your heavy items get tied or hold with tight straps, ropes for of-course additional security. Furniture dollies not only reduce a human body stress and pain of lifting the heavy goods but it also safely travels the item without much pressure and risk - Local Packers and Movers Bangalore.
2. Furniture sliders - trust me these small sized equipments can work like wonders when comes to protecting the floors while moving heavy goods. Now these sliders are meant to be slide across the room with minimum efforts and also ensure the protection of floors; also these are made of durable plastic and a surface of hard rubber which results zero damage to your floors.

These moving equipments are rare to find, so you can only get it by a top moving companies like Movers and Packers in Bangalore. You can definitely ask us for your help 24 * 7.

Second line of defense

The second line of defense is much more like a backup plan which again works well even without the moving equipments. It's not essential to hire moving equipments when moving, even with a strong protecting layer and little attention you can safeguard your floors during moving heavy furniture or appliances – says Secure and Safe Packers and Movers in Bangalore.

1. Plywood sheets - the best way to defend your floors is to place hard covers on them. the story is not hidden of damaged floors; if you can arrange plywood sheets over the way then the probability of damaging the floors becomes very less. #Local #Packers and #Movers #Bangalore will suggest you to do so, we know this will take a little investment but getting suffered from heavy damage it's better to invest little expensive for precaution. We know you'll be searching for its cheaper alternative and cardboard can work in replacement.
2. Thick cardboard - yes cardboard can be use in replacement of plywood sheets. So for this moving cardboard boxes won't work; you need a special and very thick huge cardboard box which we usually don't pick for boxing up. Movers and Packers Bangalore advise you to cut down the box in large pieces, make them arrange in such way that it covers the large area of road through which items are said to be in and out in your house. For security make sure you make them stable to one place by tight tapes so that when you're walking they don't slip and distract your balance and you eventually fall down. So for a better and safer side tuck them nicely.
3. Furniture blankets - these blankets provide you immense protection for your floors. Place a thick layer of blanket on the floor to see a heavy protection layer.
