Main Street Radiology has been proudly serving the Queens community for nearly 50 years, and while they've evolved and grown during their time in the medical field, they've always stayed committed to their founding ideals of excellence and compassion. Today, Main Street Radiology has four convenient locations: two branches in Bayside, one branch in Flushing, and one branch in Jackson Heights. They're proud to boast a team of 32 board certified radiologists with a wide variety of specialty training in fields as diverse as Neuroradiology, Musculoskeletal, Breast, Nuclear/PET CT, and Abdominal Imaging.

Main Street Radiology is constantly adapting and changing to better serve the community, which is why they're dedicated to continuing to learn and grow. Their open view gantry design PET/CT scanner is the first of its kind in Queens, NY, and serves as just one example of the advanced quality of care Main Street Radiology provides. They use the most state of the art diagnostic imaging tools available for more precise diagnosis and treatment, including: Low Dose Multidetector CT3T Multichannel MRI3-D Digital Mammography Tomosynthesis Open View Gantry Design PET/CT Scanner Ultrasound and Bone Densitometry (DEXA) Patients might initially choose Main Street Radiology because of their cutting-edge analysis tools and convenient locations, but they stay with the practice because of their caring doctors, friendly staff, and well-maintained facilities.

The team at Main Street Radiology understands that providing high quality medical care is only half of the equation. They know that being caring, patient and compassionate is also a vital part of providing the superior medical care that has made them a success for almost half a century. If you live in Queens, NY, and you need world-class diagnostic imaging services and outstanding patient care, contact Main Street Radiology at (718) 428-1500 today, or visit their website for more information.
