We have a professional technology platform for insoluble innovative drugs. With mature and complete technologies such as solid dispersion, micronization, solubilization, inclusion compound, in vitro dissolution/in vivo PK comprehensive evaluation, etc., we can deal with the common solubility and permeability problems of candidate compounds for new drugs.

We also have a professional high-end preparation technology platform. For inhalation administration, ophthalmic administration, transdermal administration, sustained-release administration, and new particulate system administration, our Preparation Department has continuously innovated and improved its technical service platform and accumulated practical experience to meet the requirements of the times and clients.
