Parents and children always have a strong bond and if something is wrong with your child your gut will inform you about it, please don't ignore if you feel so because you are most likely to be correct. You should not go by the advice of anyone who is not professional but immediately get a consultation from counsellor to know exactly what is going on with your child. To tackle this problem, Dr. Promilla Butani, a leading consulting pediatrician in South Delhi, can help, and she provides special training to parents that allows them to connect with their children. Connect today with the top pediatrician, to know more about teenage counseling and help children to build a robust mental personality.
