The easiest method do platform number enquiry is go to the Railway station and check for the details on board with handwriting or electronic sign boards about the time of arrival and the platform on which the train is expected in addition to this, delayed arrival as well as last minute change of platform must be closely monitored on audio announcements at the Railway station.

If you want to check platform number online, there are couple of apps and websites that would provide this info. But please note, these platforms are mostly the platform where that particular train generally arrives. At times, the platform numbers are changed in the last minutes of arrival because of various reasons which might not get reflected in these apps or websites. So, I would request to always confirm platform number from the information display monitor in the station or the enquiry counter.
