LeapFeed helps online retailers with generating high-quality product data in order to product positioning on all marketing channels.

Each and every product feed is the heartbeat of your shopping campaign. But unless your product feed is optimized for any shopping channel you are missing out on highly converting traffic and revenue. It is vital that individual data feeds are always up-to-date and have a high data quality that meets the singular requirements of search engines, marketplaces, or comparison websites.

We have optimized shopping feeds for some of the world's greatest retails brands. Our highly trained team provides an optimal solution: importing your raw data, manipulating and optimizing the feed for each channel, and managing your accounts with a complete overview.

There is also the possibility to generate custom feeds.
